

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

SUPERMEDIA INC., SUPERMEDIA LLC.,
SUPERMEDIA SERVICES INC., SUPERMEDIA SALES
INC., SUPERMEDIA EMPLOYEE BENEFITS
COMMITTEE, and IDEARC INCEPTOR LTD.

Plaintiffs,

v.

Civil Action No. 3:12-CV-2034-G

LINTON BELL, DALE BURKS, PAMELA BENNETT,
MARTHA BOBO, DENNIS CASSIDY, CAROL FOY,
JOSEPH GALLAGHER, BEVERLY GEMMELL,
EDWIN HANSON, CHRISTINE HARVEY,
MARGARET KETZER, JOANIE KRAFT, THERESA
LANE, SHARON LEYNES, PATRICIA LINDOP,
ROBERT MENTZER, SANDRA NOE,
CAROL OHNSTAD, CLAIRE PALMER, STANLEY
RUSSO, HOWARD SHAPSES, JOHN SULLIVAN,
BERNARD ZENUS, COMMUNICATION WORKERS
OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1301,
COMMUNICATION WORKERS OF AMERICA,
AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1301, COMMUNICATION
WORKERS OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1302,
and INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF
ELECTRICAL WORKERS, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 2213,

Defendants.

MOTION TO DISMISS LOCAL 2213, INTERNATIONAL INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS, AFL-CIO

NOW COMES Defendant Local 2213, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers,
AFL-CIO ("Local 2213") and hereby moves to dismiss the Complaint against it pursuant to Fed.
R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), (2), (3) and (6) for the following reasons.

First, the case against Local 2213 should be dismissed under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2) and (3) for lack of personal jurisdiction and for improper venue under Section 301 of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 185. This Court lacks personal jurisdiction over Local 2213 because it is based in New York and has not had the requisite minimum contacts with Texas and for this same reason Section 301 venue is also improper here. To the extent that the SuperMedia Plaintiffs would seek to employ the nationwide service provision under ERISA, 29 U.S.C. § 1132(e)(2), this argument should be rejected because Plaintiffs' cause of action does not arise under ERISA, but rather under the Declaratory Judgment Act, for which the national service provision is not available. In any event, application of nationwide service would fail the requirements of constitutional due process.

Second, the case should be dismissed because it is not ripe for judicial determination. As Plaintiffs have conceded, the collective bargaining agreement ("CBA") between the parties is the critical element of this dispute. It is because of this agreement that Plaintiffs say they have sued Local 2213. However, the current CBA does not expire until December 31, 2013, and the agreement that will be in effect when the plan amendments are implemented on Jan. 1, 2014, has yet to be negotiated. Until that successor CBA exists, it is impossible for the parties or this Court to determine the lawfulness of Plaintiffs' actions.

Third, the complaint should be dismissed because it fails to state a claim for declaratory judgment under Section 301 of the Labor-Management Relations Act. Plaintiffs' Section 301 claim seeks a declaration that no CBA applies to the present dispute, but that claim is not cognizable under Section 301 because it does not seek a declaration concerning a "violation" of a CBA.

Fourth, the case should be dismissed because it presents core questions as to whether the SuperMedia Plaintiffs violated Sections 8(a)(5) and (d) of the National Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 158(a)(5) and (d), when they unilaterally changed the future retirement benefits of current employees along with the benefits of those employees who had already retired. Because the National Labor Relations Board has exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether there has been a violation of Section 8 of the NLRA, dismissal pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) is warranted. Should the Court nonetheless find reason to decide the questions presented under Section 8, dismissal is proper under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) because SuperMedia's violation of the NLRA precludes the declaratory judgment plaintiffs seek.

Finally, the Complaint should be dismissed because it fails to state a claim for a declaratory judgment under ERISA. Local 2213 is neither a participant, beneficiary, nor a fiduciary of an ERISA plan. Because SuperMedia alleges that Local 2213 is not a representative of the retirees, it follows that the local union would not have statutory standing to bring an ERISA claim. Accordingly, the declaratory judgment claims against Local 2213 should be dismissed for lack of statutory standing.

This Motion to Dismiss is supported by a Memorandum of Law and Affidavit of Mary Jo Arcuri, which are submitted with this Motion.

Dated: October 12, 2012

Respectfully submitted:

/s/ Yona Rozen

Yona Rozen-Local Counsel
Texas State Bar No. 17358500

GILLESPIE ROZEN & WATSKY, P.C.
3402 Oak Grove Avenue, Suite 200
Dallas, Texas 75204
Phone: (214) 720-2009
Fax: (214) 720-2291
Email: yrozen@grwlawfirm.com

/s/ Donald D. Oliver

Donald D. Oliver-Lead Counsel
NYS State Bar No. 1702588
Admitted pro hac vice
Blitman & King LLP
Franklin Center, Suite 300
443 North Franklin Street
Syracuse, New York 13204
Phone: (315) 422-7111
Fax: (315) 471-2623
Email: ddoliver@bklawyers.com

Counsel for International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 2213, AFL-CIO

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on October 12, 2012, I electronically filed the foregoing document with the clerk of court for the U.S. District Court, Northern District of Texas, using the electronic case filing system of the court. The electronic case filing system sent a "Notice of Electronic Filing" to all attorneys of record who have consented in writing to accept this Notice as service of this document by electronic means.

/s/ Donald D. Oliver

Donald D. Oliver

LMF\IBEW2213\SUPERMEDIA\DISMISS-MOTION.DOCX

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

SUPERMEDIA INC., SUPERMEDIA LLC.,
SUPERMEDIA SERVICES INC., SUPERMEDIA SALES
INC., SUPERMEDIA EMPLOYEE BENEFITS
COMMITTEE, and IDEARC INCEPTOR LTD.

Plaintiffs,

v.

Civil Action No. 3:12-CV-2034-G

LINTON BELL, DALE BURKS, PAMELA BENNETT,
MARTHA BOBO, DENNIS CASSIDY, CAROL FOY,
JOSEPH GALLAGHER, BEVERLY GEMMELL,
EDWIN HANSON, CHRISTINE HARVEY,
MARGARET KETZER, JOANIE KRAFT, THERESA
LANE, SHARON LEYNES, PATRICIA LINDOP,
ROBERT MENTZER, SANDRA NOE,
CAROL OHNSTAD, CLAIRE PALMER, STANLEY
RUSSO, HOWARD SHAPSES, JOHN SULLIVAN,
BERNARD ZENUS, COMMUNICATION WORKERS
OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1301,
COMMUNICATION WORKERS OF AMERICA,
AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1301, COMMUNICATION
WORKERS OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1302,
and INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF
ELECTRICAL WORKERS, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 2213,

Defendants.

AFFIDAVIT OF MARY JO ARCURI

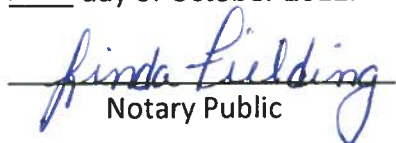

1. My name is Mary Jo Arcuri and I am employed as Business Manager/Financial Secretary of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 2213. My business address is 6333 Route 298, Suite 103, East Syracuse, New York 13057.

2. My duties as Business Manager include handling collective bargaining for IBEW Local 2213.

3. Attached to this affidavit is a true and accurate copy of a letter I sent to SuperMedia by first class mail on October 10, 2012, on behalf of Local 2213.

Mary Jo Arcuri

Sworn to before me this 10th day of October 2012.

Notary Public

LMF\IBEW2213\SUPERMEDIA\DISMISS AFF.DOCX
Notary Public, State of New York
Qualified in Onon. Co. No. 4772305
Commission Expires 3/30/2014

Attachment

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS

Local 2213

Mary Jo Arcuri
President / Business Manager

October 10, 2012

Carl Mitchell, Business Partner
SuperMedia - Labor Relations NE
35 Village Road, Suite 200
Middleton, MA 01949

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I am writing on behalf of IBEW Local 2213. Local 2213 recently learned, by way of a complaint served upon it in a lawsuit the Company filed in Texas, that on June 25, 2012, SuperMedia amended its retiree benefit plans to reduce and/or terminate medical, dental, and other "component benefits" provided to retirees of Local 2213. It is my understanding that these changes are scheduled to take effect on January 1, 2014, the day after the expiration of the parties' current agreement. The Union objects to the Company's unilateral changes in retiree benefits and reserves its right to bargain over these matters in the course of the parties' negotiations for a successor agreement. Any plan amendments affecting the retirement benefits available to employees represented by Local 2213 must be rescinded before such bargaining takes place.

Sincerely,

Mary Jo Arcuri
Business Manager/Financial Secretary
IBEW Local 2213

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

SUPERMEDIA INC., SUPERMEDIA LLC.,
SUPERMEDIA SERVICES INC., SUPERMEDIA SALES
INC., SUPERMEDIA EMPLOYEE BENEFITS
COMMITTEE, and IDEARC INCEPTOR LTD.

Plaintiffs,

v.

Civil Action No. 3:12-CV-2034-G

LINTON BELL, DALE BURKS, PAMELA BENNETT,
MARTHA BOBO, DENNIS CASSIDY, CAROL FOY,
JOSEPH GALLAGHER, BEVERLY GEMMELL,
EDWIN HANSON, CHRISTINE HARVEY,
MARGARET KETZER, JOANIE KRAFT, THERESA
LANE, SHARON LEYNES, PATRICIA LINDOP,
ROBERT MENTZER, SANDRA NOE,
CAROL OHNSTAD, CLAIRE PALMER, STANLEY
RUSSO, HOWARD SHAPSES, JOHN SULLIVAN,
BERNARD ZENUS, COMMUNICATION WORKERS
OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1301,
COMMUNICATION WORKERS OF AMERICA,
AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1301, COMMUNICATION
WORKERS OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 1302,
and INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF
ELECTRICAL WORKERS, AFL-CIO, LOCAL 2213,

Defendants.

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF LOCAL 2213's MOTION TO DISMISS

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
I. INTRODUCTION	1
II. FACTUAL OVERVIEW	2
III. LEGAL ARGUMENTS.....	5
A. The Amended Complaint Against Local 2213 Should Be Dismissed Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. (12)(b)(2) and (3) For Lack of Personal Jurisdiction and Improper Venue	5
1. A Texas Court Does Not Have Jurisdiction Over Local 2213 Under Section 301 of the Labor-Management Relations Act.....	5
2. Plaintiffs May Not Avail Themselves of ERISA's Nationwide Service Provision Because Their Suit Does Not Arise Under Subchapter I of ERISA	8
a. Because SuperMedia did not act as a fiduciary when it altered the plans, it may not bring a cause of action under Section 1132	9
b. Even if SuperMedia were a fiduciary, this declaratory judgment action is nonetheless not of the kind that may be brought under Section 1132	10
B. The Complaint Should Be Dismissed For a Lack of Ripeness	14
C. Plaintiffs' Attempt to Address Future Rights Also Fails to State a Claim Against Local 2213 Under Section 301	18
D. The Declaratory Judgment Action Against Local 2213 Concerning a Future Contract is an Improper Attempt to Circumvent the National Labor Relations Board's Exclusive Jurisdiction.....	19
E. Plaintiffs Fail to State a Claim Against Local 2213 for Declaratory Relief Based on ERISA Because They are not Suing the Union as a Representative of the Individual Retirees .	24
IV. CONCLUSION	24

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

	Page
Cases
Abbott Laboratories v. Gardner , 387 U.S. 136 (1967)	15
Allied Chem. & Alkali Workers of Am. Local Union No. 1 v. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Chem. Div. , 404 U.S. 157 (1971).....	16, 20, 23
Alpine View Co. Ltd. v. Atlas Copco AB , 205 F.3d 208 (5th Cir. 2000)	5
American Commercial Barge Lines Company v. Seafarers International Union , 730 F.2d 327 (5th Cir. 1984).....	23
Bellaire Gen. Hosp. v. Blue Cross Blue Shield , 97 F.3d 822 (5th Cir.1996)	13
Burger King Corporation v. Rudzewicz , 471 U.S. 462 (1985).....	6, 7, 13
Burstein v. State Bar of California , 693 F.2d 511 (5th Cir. 1982).....	5
Carpenters Amended & Restated Health Benefit Fund v. Ryan Constr. Co. , 767 F.2d 1170 (5th Cir. 1985).....	11
Denny's Inc. v. Cake , 364 F.3d 521 (4th Cir. 2004)	8
E.I. Dupont De Nemours , 355 NLRB No. 176 (2010), enf. denied on other grounds 682 F.3d 65 (D.C. Cir. 2012)	20
FirstEnergy Gen. Corp. , 358 NLRB No. 96 (Aug. 6, 2012)	19, 21, 22
Georgia Power Co. , 325 NLRB 420 (1998)	19
Gulf Life Ins. Co. v. Arnold , 809 F.2d 1520 (11th Cir. 1987).....	11, 12, 13
Harold H. Huggins Realty, Inc. v. FNC, Inc. , 634 F.3d 787, n. 2 (5th Cir. 2011).....	24
Holt Oil & Gas Corp. v. Harvey , 801 F.2d 773 (5th Cir.1986)	7
HSC Hospitality, Inc. v. Sun Life Assur. Co. of Canada , 2001 WL 327831 (N.D. Tex. 2001)	12
Hydrokinetics, Inc. v. Alaska Mech., Inc. , 700 F.2d 1026 (5th Cir.1983).....	7
Isbell v. DM Records, Inc. , 2004 WL 1243153 (N.D. Tex. June 4, 2004)	6
Jobe v. ATR Mktg., Inc. , 87 F.3d 751 (5th Cir. 1996).....	5
Kaiser Steel Corp. v. Mullins , 455 U.S. 72 (1982).....	22, 23
KLLM, Inc. Employee Health Prot. Plan v. Ontario Cmty. Hosp. , 947 F. Supp. 262, n. 14 (S.D. Miss. 1996).....	9
Laborers Health & Welf. Trust Fund For N. Calif. v. Adv. Lightweight Concrete Co., Inc. , 484 U.S. 539, n. 5 (1988).....	16
Latshaw v. Johnston , 167 F.3d 208 (5th Cir.1999).....	7

Lockheed Corp. v. Spink, 517 U.S. 882 (1996) 9

Martinez v. Schlumberger, Ltd., 338 F.3d 407 (5th Cir. 2003)..... 9

Massey Ferguson Division of Varity Corp. v. Gurley, 51 F.3d 102 (7th Cir. 1995) 11

Maytag Corp. v. Int'l Union, United Auto., Aerospace & Agric. Implement Workers of Am., 687 F.3d 1076 (8th Cir. 2012) 17

Menchaca v. Chrysler Credit Corp., 613 F.2d 507 (5th Cir. 1980) 22

Midwest Power Systems, Inc., 323 NLRB 404 (1997) 20

Miss. Power Co. v. NLRB, 284 F.3d 605 (5th Cir. 2002) 16, 19, 20, 23

Moncrief Oil Int'l Inc. v. OAO Gazprom, 481 F.3d 309 (5th Cir. 2007) 7

New Orleans Pub. Serv. Inc. v. Council of City of New Orleans, 833 F.2d 583 (5th Cir. 1987)..... 15

NewPage Wisconsin Sys. Inc. v. United Steel, Paper & Forestry, Rubber, Mfg., Energy Allied Indus. & Serv. Workers Int'l Union, AFL-CIO/CLC, 651 F.3d 775 (7th Cir. 2011) 24

NGS Am., Inc. v. Jefferson, 218 F.3d 519 (6th Cir. 2000) 10, 11, 12

NLRB v. Ins. Agents' Int'l Union. AFL-CIO, 361 U.S. 477 (1960) 15

Rep. of Panama v. BCCI Holdings (Luxembourg) S.A., 119 F.3d 935 (11th Cir. 1997) 13

S. Nuclear Operating Co, v. NLRB, 524 F.3d 1350 (D.C. Cir. 2008) 20

San Diego Bldg. Trades Council, Millmen's Union, Local 2020 v. Garmon, 359 U.S. 236 (1959) . 22

Shaffer v. Heitner, 433 U.S. 186 (1977) 6

Stripling v. Jordan Prod. Co., LLC, 234 F.3d 863 (5th Cir. 2000) 2

Taylor Inv. Ltd. v. Upper Darby Twp., 983 F.2d 1285 (3d Cir. 1993)..... 15

Textron Lycoming Reciprocating Engine Div., Avco Corp. v. United Auto. Workers, 523 U.S. 653 (1998) 18

Thomas v. Union Carbide Agricultural Products Co., 473 U.S. 568 (1985) 15

Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. DiGregorio, 811 F.2d 1249 (9th Cir. 1987)..... 11, 12

Verizon Emp. Benefits Comm. v. Jaeger, 2006 WL 2880451 (N.D. Tex. 2006) 13

Williamson v. Tucker, 645 F.2d 404 (5th Cir. 1981) 22

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 2213, AFL-CIO ("Local 2213"), has moved to dismiss the Amended Complaint against it, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), (2), (3) and (6), for the following reasons.

First, the case against Local 2213 should be dismissed pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2) and (3) for lack of personal jurisdiction and improper venue under Section 301 of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 185, because Local 2213 does not have the requisite minimum contacts with Texas. To the extent that Plaintiffs (collectively referred to as "SuperMedia") would seek to employ the nationwide service provision under ERISA, 29 U.S.C. § 1132(e)(2), they cannot do so because Plaintiffs' cause of action does not arise under subchapter I of ERISA.

Second, the case should be dismissed under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) because it is not ripe for judicial determination. As Plaintiffs have conceded, a collective bargaining agreement ("CBA") between the parties is critical to determining whether the announced changes to retiree medical benefits will be lawful when they are implemented in 2014. However, the lawfulness of the Plaintiffs' actions must be evaluated in light of the CBA that will be in place on Jan. 1, 2014 (the date the announced changes actually take effect), and that CBA does not yet exist. Until that CBA has been negotiated, it is impossible for the parties or this Court to determine the lawfulness of Plaintiffs' actions with respect to any retirees who have been covered by the CBA of Local 2213.

Third, the case should be dismissed pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) because: (1) SuperMedia does not allege a cause of action concerning whether an existing collective bargaining agreement has been violated, and therefore it has not stated a claim under Section 301 of the LMRA, 29 U.S.C. § 185; and (2) by changing the future retirement benefits of its current employees prior to engaging in collective bargaining negotiations, SuperMedia has violated Section 8(a)(5) and (d) of the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 158(a)(5) and (d), an unfair labor practice committed to the exclusive jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board. If this Court were to nonetheless decide the questions presented by Section 8 of the NLRA, dismissal would be warranted under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) because SuperMedia's violation of the NLRA precludes the declaratory judgment they seek.

Finally, to the extent that SuperMedia's declaratory judgment claim against Local 2213 is based on ERISA rather than Section 301, the claim must be dismissed because SuperMedia contends that Local 2213 is not being sued as representative of the retirees.

II. FACTUAL OVERVIEW

The following facts are taken from the Amended Complaint, and are presented as undisputed for the purpose of this motion only. See. e.g., Stripling v. Jordan Prod. Co., LLC, 234 F.3d 863, 869 (5th Cir. 2000).

The Plaintiffs are six entities that have collectively referred to themselves as SuperMedia. Am. Compl., intro. para. SuperMedia is a "media solutions company" that provides print and digital services, such as the yellow pages directories, advertising, mobile applications, and search engine resources. Am. Compl., ¶ 38. SuperMedia provides health and welfare benefits to its eligible retired employees (and eligible retired employees of its predecessors).

Am. Compl., ¶ 42.¹ These benefits currently are provided pursuant to various health and welfare benefit plans² and various collective bargaining agreements. Am. Compl., ¶¶ 41, 44.

Local 2213 is a labor union based in Syracuse, New York. Am. Compl., ¶ 34. The bargaining unit represented by Local 2213 is a unit of clerical employees. See Am. Compl., Ex. J. Employees in that bargaining unit work in New York. See id. Local 2213 does not represent employees who work in Texas. See id. Local 2213 is party to a collective bargaining agreement with SuperMedia. Am. Compl., ¶ 58; Ex. J.³ The CBA expires on Dec. 31, 2013. Am. Compl., ¶ 58. Plaintiffs do not contend that Local 2213 is "a representative of any individual retiree or the putative class of retirees sued herein." Am. Compl., ¶ 34,, fn. 3. The Amended Complaint alleges only that Local 2213 has been "sued ... because it is a party to certain collective bargaining agreement that is at issue in this case." Id. Plaintiffs make no allegation that Local 2213 has any other contacts with the state of Texas.

On June 25, 2012, the Employee Benefits Committee of the SuperMedia Board of Directors voted to amend three of its retiree benefits plans to the substantial detriment of the retirees. Am. Compl., ¶ 52. For example, SuperMedia has declared it will reduce or eliminate contributions to retirees' health insurance premiums and that it will increase co-pays and ¹ These predecessors include Verizon Communication Inc., GTE Corporation, f/k/a General Telephone & Electronics Corporation, Bell Atlantic, and NYNEX Corporation. Am. Compl., ¶ 39.

² The Plans include: (i) the SuperMedia Management and Non-Union Hourly Plan for Group Insurance, (ii) the SuperMedia Plan for Group Insurance for Mid-Atlantic Associates, (iii) the SuperMedia Plan for Group Insurance for New York and New England Associates, and (iv) the SuperMedia Pension Plan for Collectively-Bargained Employees (providing Medicare Part B reimbursement). Am. Compl., ¶ 42, n. 4.

³ While the Local 2213 CBA is an exhibit to the Complaint, SuperMedia has not produced the CBAs that "pertain to most former bargaining employees" despite alleging that these contracts "do not provide for or even reference retiree health and welfare benefits." Am. Compl. ¶ 44, ¶ 47, n. 8. Only a single sample agreement is attached to the Amended Complaint as Ex. K.

deductibles. Am. Compl., ¶ 62. The plan changes relevant to Local 2213 took effect on September 1, 2012, but the changes to benefits will not become effective until Jan. 1, 2014. Am. Compl., ¶ 62. The contribution rates and benefit levels for retirees of Local 2213 are fixed by the CBA until Dec. 31, 2013. Am. Compl., ¶ 58.

The day after this vote was taken, SuperMedia sent notice of the Amendments to those retirees who are potentially affected. Am. Compl., ¶ 64. With its notice, SuperMedia included a "Claim Form" that allowed plan beneficiaries to "make a claim for benefits, raise questions, voice concerns, or make objections regarding the Amendments and SuperMedia's legal right to amend, modify, revoke, or terminate the Plans at any time." Am. Compl., ¶ 64. SuperMedia received replies from more than 900 "Claim Form" recipients. Am. Compl., ¶ 65. Although the "Claim Forms" state that the "purpose ... is to provide you with a procedure to object to SuperMedia's right to amend" the Plans, see, e.g., Am. Compl., Exs. Y-AM, the context of the litigation strongly suggests that SuperMedia desired not to "provide ... a procedure" to object, but rather to identify retirees to haul into federal court. See Am. Compl., ¶¶ 65, 71.

Indeed, within hours of receiving the "objections" of Defendant retirees Carol Foy and Stanley Russo, rather than review and respond to the objections made, SuperMedia filed its initial 26-page complaint (supported by hundreds upon hundreds of pages of supporting documentation) in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas. See Orig. Compl. ¶ 42. Named as Defendants were Foy, Russo, and Locals 1301 and 1302 of the Communication Workers of America, AFL-CIO. On August 2, 2012, SuperMedia filed an amended complaint adding twenty-one (21) additional retirees and Local 2213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

III. LEGAL ARGUMENTS

A. The Amended Complaint Against Local 2213 Should Be Dismissed Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. (12)(b)(2) and (3) For Lack of Personal Jurisdiction and Improper Venue

The Amended Complaint against Local 2213 should be dismissed pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2) and (b)(3) because this Texas Court lacks personal jurisdiction over this New York labor union.⁴

"When a nonresident defendant moves to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, the plaintiff bears the burden of establishing the district court's jurisdiction over the nonresident." Jobe v. ATR Mktg., Inc., 87 F.3d 751, 753 (5th Cir. 1996). Here, Plaintiffs allege that the Court "has personal jurisdiction over each of the Defendants based on the facts alleged" in the Amended Complaint, but asserts only that Local 2213 is based in New York, and that it has a collective bargaining agreement with SuperMedia, a Texas company. Am Compl., ¶¶ 2-4, 34. Because the Complaint makes no allegation that Local 2213 has ever had any contacts with the state of Texas other than entering into a collective bargaining agreement with SuperMedia, Plaintiffs cannot sustain their burden.

1. A Texas Court Does Not Have Jurisdiction Over Local 2213 Under Section 301 of the Labor-Management Relations Act

"[A] federal court may only exercise personal jurisdiction if it is authorized to do so by law and such exercise does not violate the Constitution." Burstein v. State Bar of California, 693 F.2d 511, 514 (5th Cir. 1982). The venue and jurisdiction provisions of Section 301 of the Labor-

⁴ As set forth below, Local 2213 also urges dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. A court faced with challenges to both subject matter jurisdiction and personal jurisdiction should "consider the complexity of subject-matter jurisdiction issues raised by the case, as well as concerns of federalism, and of judicial economy and restraint in determining whether to dismiss claims due to a lack of personal jurisdiction before considering challenges to its subject-matter jurisdiction." Alpine View Co. Ltd. v. Atlas Copco AB, 205 F.3d 208, 213 (5th Cir. 2000).

Management Relations Act ("Section 301"), cited by Plaintiffs, do not allow for personal jurisdiction here. Section 301 establishes federal jurisdiction only "(1) in the district in which such organization maintains its principal office, or (2) in any district in which its duly authorized officers or agents are engaged in representing or acting for employee members." 29 U.S.C. § 185(c). Because Local 2213 does not maintain its principal office in Texas and is not engaged in representing or acting for employee members in Texas but, rather, in New York, Plaintiffs cannot establish jurisdiction under Section 301.⁵

Moreover, even if Section 301 authorized the Court to exercise jurisdiction, it cannot do so here because such exercise would violate the Constitution. To satisfy the Due Process Clause, the nonresident must "have some minimum contact with the forum that results from an affirmative act on his part such that the nonresident defendant could anticipate being hauled into the courts of the forum state" and "it must be fair or reasonable to require the nonresident to defend the suit in the forum state." Isbell v. DM Records, Inc., 2004 WL 1243153 (N.D. Tex. June 4, 2004), citing Burger King Corporation v. Rudzewicz, 471 U.S. 462, 474-77 (1985). The Due Process Clause thus ensures that persons have a "fair warning that a particular activity may subject [them] to the jurisdiction of a foreign sovereign." Id. quoting Burger King Corporation, at 472 (quoting Shaffer v. Heitner, 433 U.S. 186, 218 (1977) (Stevens, J., concurring)). Yet, Plaintiffs do not allege that Local 2213 has engaged in any affirmative acts that would reasonably cause it to anticipate being dragged into Texas courts.

Plaintiffs do not claim that Local 2213 has committed any tortuous activity in Texas, or that it has sought to represent employees or retirees in Texas. Instead, Plaintiffs' complaint focuses on various actions that they have taken in Texas, such as amending their plan documents and sending notices of these changes to retirees. A plaintiff's unilateral activities, however, cannot establish minimum contacts between the defendant and forum state. Moncrief Oil Int'l Inc. v. OAO Gazprom, 481 F.3d 309, 311 (5th Cir. 2007), citing Hydrokinetics, Inc. v. Alaska Mech., Inc., 700 F.2d 1026, 1028 (5th Cir.1983).

⁵ In light of Local 2213's lack of minimum contacts in Texas, venue under Section 301 is improper here as well.

Plaintiffs may attempt to argue that by entering into a collective bargaining agreement with SuperMedia, Local 2213 could somehow anticipate being sued in Texas. This argument is unavailing, as merely contracting with a resident of the forum state does not establish minimum contacts. Moncrief Oil Int'l Inc. v. OAO Gazprom, 481 F.3d 309, 311 (5th Cir. 2007), citing Latshaw v. Johnston, 167 F.3d 208, 211 (5th Cir.1999) and Hydrokinetics, Inc., supra. Indeed, "[a]n exchange of communications in the course of developing and carrying out a contract also does not, by itself, constitute the required purposeful availment of the benefits and protections of Texas law." Moncrief Oil Int'l Inc., 481 F.3d at 312, citing Holt Oil & Gas Corp. v. Harvey, 801 F.2d 773, 778 (5th Cir.1986). This rule is critical, as "[0]therwise, jurisdiction could be exercised based only on the fortuity that one of the parties happens to reside in the forum state." Id. Instead, the court must evaluate multiple factors in determining whether a defendant purposefully established minimum contacts within the forum and may not base jurisdiction on random, fortuitous, or attenuated contacts. Id. citing Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz, 471 U.S. 462, 479 (1985).

Plaintiffs offer no facts to support any claim that Local 2213 purposefully established minimum contacts within Texas. They do not allege that Local 2213 came to Texas to represent employees here, or even that Local 2213 sought out a Texas company operating in New York to organize. To the contrary, Local 2213 already represented employees in New York when Verizon Communication Inc., and Verizon "spun-off" SuperMedia's predecessor, Idearc, Inc., and consequently its members became Idearc employees. Am. Compl., ¶ 39. Plaintiffs also do not allege that either the employees covered by the Local 2213 collective bargaining agreement or Local 2213, the New York local union representing them, performed any of their contractual obligations in Texas. Nor do they allege that Texas was a hub of the activity covered by the collective bargaining agreement or that Local 2213 engaged in any business activities in Texas. Finally, they point to no choice of law provisions suggesting that the parties would look to Texas law to govern any disputes. In sum, Plaintiffs' unilateral activities in Texas do not give rise to the minimum contacts necessary to establish personal jurisdiction over Local 2213 under Section 301 of the LMRA.

2. Plaintiffs May Not Avail Themselves of ERISA's Nationwide Service Provision Because Their Suit Does Not Arise Under Subchapter I of ERISA

In order to circumvent the absence of any minimum contacts with Texas, Plaintiffs seek to apply the nationwide service provision of Section 502 of ERISA. Am. Compl., ¶ 37 (citing 29 U.S.C. 1132(e)(2)).⁶ However, 29 U.S.C. § 1132(e)(2) does not apply to plaintiffs' declaratory judgment action because they do not assert claims cognizable under Section 1132 of ERISA. Whether the Plaintiffs may avail themselves of ERISA's nationwide service provision "hinges on the court's subject matter jurisdiction under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3)," not on the Declaratory Judgment Act. Denny's Inc. v. Cake, 364 F.3d 521, 524 (4th Cir. 2004). And contrary to Plaintiffs' allegation in paragraph 37 of their Amended Complaint, there is no cause of action available to Plaintiffs under Section 1132 on the facts alleged.

⁶ 29 U.S.C. § 1132(e)(2) provides in relevant part that "[w]here an action under this subchapter [Subchapter 1 - Protection of Employee Benefit Rights] is brought in a district court of the United States, it may be brought in the district where the plan is administered, where the breach took place, or where a defendant resides or may be found, and process may be served in any other district where a defendant resides or may be found."

The relevant causes of action established by Section 1132 may be brought only by plan participants, beneficiaries, fiduciaries, or the Secretary of Labor. 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a). Plaintiffs obviously are not a participant, beneficiary, or the Secretary. Thus, Plaintiffs' only hope to state a claim under Section 1132 is as fiduciaries, but this fails because: (1) Plaintiffs did not act as fiduciaries when they amended the plan, and (2) Subchapter I of ERISA would not allow Plaintiffs to make the claim they are making even if they were fiduciaries.

- a. Because SuperMedia did not act as a fiduciary when it altered the plans, it may not bring a cause of action under Section 1132.

First, employers and plan sponsors "who alter the terms of a plan do not fall into the category of fiduciaries." Lockheed Corp. v. Spink, 517 U.S. 882, 890 (1996); Martinez v. Schlumberger, Ltd., 338 F.3d 407, 429 (5th Cir. 2003) ("a company does not act in a fiduciary capacity by simply amending a plan"). Because SuperMedia did not act as a fiduciary, SuperMedia is not one of the three enumerated persons who have statutory standing under Section 1132 to bring a claim. And because SuperMedia is not an appropriate plaintiff under Section 1132, there is no subject-matter jurisdiction, meaning that SuperMedia may not access the nationwide service provision. KLLM, Inc. Employee Health Prot. Plan v. Ontario Cmty. Hosp., 947 F. Supp. 262, 269, n. 14 (S.D. Miss. 1996) (Because "subject matter jurisdiction does not exist pursuant to § 1132(e), the court agrees ... the Plan may not utilize ... nationwide service of process").

- b. Even if SuperMedia were a fiduciary, this declaratory judgment action is nonetheless not of the kind that may be brought under Section 1132.

Second, even if the Plaintiffs implausibly could be viewed as fiduciaries, there still would be no cause of action available to them, as Section 1132 explicitly limits the types of claims fiduciaries may bring and a claim for a declaration that amendments to an employee benefit plan do not violate ERISA is not among those available claims for which nationwide service of process applies. Section 1132(a)(3) provides the only cause of action that may be initiated by a fiduciary under ERISA. This section allows "a participant, beneficiary, or fiduciary:

(A) to enjoin any act or practice which violates any provision of this subchapter or the terms of the plan, or

(B) to obtain other appropriate equitable relief

(i) to redress such violations or

(ii) to enforce any provisions of this subchapter or the terms of the plan."

29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3). Because Plaintiffs do not seek to enjoin an act or practice that violates ERISA, Section 1132(a)(3)(A) does not apply.

Section 1132(a)(3)(B) also does not apply because Plaintiffs neither seek to redress a violation of ERISA or a plan, nor to enforce ERISA or a plan. Indeed, they claim there has been no violation. Therefore, regardless of whether the requested declaratory judgment may be considered "appropriate equitable relief," it is clear that this action is not designed to redress a violation of ERISA or an ERISA plan. Plaintiffs do not allege that Local 2213 (or any of the other Defendants, for that matter) have committed any such violations. See Section 1132(a)(3)(B)(i).

The Complaint also is not an action to "enforce" ERISA or a plan because "a fiduciary's declaratory suit does not enforce ERISA." NGS Am., Inc. v. Jefferson, 218 F.3d 519, 530 (6th Cir. 2000). An "action 'to enforce' means an action to compel someone to do something or not to do something, such as make contributions, that ERISA or the plan requires be done or not done." Gulf Life Ins. Co. v. Arnold, 809 F.2d 1520, 1523 (11th Cir. 1987) (citing Carpenters Amended & Restated Health Benefit Fund v. Ryan Constr. Co., 767 F.2d 1170 (5th Cir. 1985). Plaintiffs' "action is defensive in nature; the compan[ies] simply wish[] to avoid making payment that [Defendants might later claim] is due. Seeking a declaration of its liability does not 'enforce' the plan." Gulf Life Ins. Co. v. Arnold, 809 F.2d 1520, 1523-24 (11th Cir. 1987); see also Bluecross Blueshield of TN v. Doctors Med. Ctr. of Modesto, Inc., 2008 WL 111980 (E.D. Tenn. 2008) (unpublished) ("Several different federal courts disagree with BCBST's claim that a fiduciary's request for a court to interpret the terms of an ERISA plan constitutes an 'enforcement' of that plan pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3)(B)(ii).") (emphasis in original) (discussing NGS Am., Inc., supra, Gulf Life Ins. Co., supra, Massey Ferguson Division of Varity Corp. v. Gurley, 51 F.3d 102, 103 (7th Cir. 1995), Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. DiGregorio, 811 F.2d 1249,1250-51 (9th Cir. 1987), and several district court cases). Because Plaintiffs' request for declaratory judgment is not an effort at enforcement, they have not stated a claim under Section 1132(a)(3)(B)(ii). Gulf Life Ins. Co. v. Arnold, 809 F.2d 1520, 1524 (11th Cir. 1987). And, again, as the above cases establish, without a claim under Section 1132, Plaintiffs may not avail themselves of the nationwide provision of Section 1132(e)(2). NGS Am., Inc., 218 F.3d at 524.

This result is entirely consistent with the language of Section 1132 itself. Section 1132(a)(1)(B) allows "a participant or beneficiary," but not fiduciaries, to bring a civil action "to clarify his rights to future benefits under the terms of the plan." A clarification of legal rights is exactly what Plaintiffs seek by bringing their Declaratory Judgment action. However, unlike other provisions of Section 1132, "fiduciaries" are expressly not provided with a special cause of action to clarify their ERISA obligations. This demonstrates that "Congress did not intend ERISA fiduciaries to use declaratory judgment actions to determine the benefit rights of participants/beneficiaries." Gulf Life Ins. Co. v. Arnold, 809 F.2d 1520, 1524 (11th Cir. 1987) (emphasis added) (fiduciary that filed declaratory judgment action to determine its liability under ERISA could not invoke ERISA's national service provisions). "[F]iduciaries are not mentioned in Section 1132(a)(1)(B), which authorizes beneficiaries and participants to bring suits to recover benefits due and/or clarify future benefits owed. Under the principle of expressio unius est exclusio alterius, it would do violence to the statute to hold that fiduciaries could bring similar suits." NGS Am., Inc. v. Jefferson, 218 F.3d 519, 528 (6th Cir. 2000); see also Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. DiGregorio, 811 F.2d 1249, 1252 (9th Cir. 1987) (same); HSC Hospitality, Inc. v. Sun Life Assur. Co. of Canada, 2001 WL 327831 (N.D. Tex. 2001) (Kaplan, MJ.) (unpublished) ("[O]nly plan participants and beneficiaries may maintain a declaratory judgment action to clarify their rights under an ERISA plan. Sun Life is neither a participant in nor a beneficiary of the plan made the basis of this suit. Its declaratory judgment action to avoid paying benefits under the policy is purely defensive in nature. Therefore, there is no subject matter jurisdiction under ERISA.") (internal citations omitted).

The court in Gulf Life recognized the dramatic problems that could be created if plan fiduciaries were allowed to file claims under the Declaratory Judgment Act against plan participants anywhere in the United States or its territories:

[U]nder Gulf Life's view of section 1132, if Gulf Life were headquartered in Guam it would be able to force Arnold to litigate his benefit plan rights in that forum. Although this states the case in its most extreme, it is not unusual for a national corporation to be headquartered in New York or in California. We believe that ERISA's legislative history unquestionably demonstrates that Congress did not intend to allow a fiduciary to force a plan participant/beneficiary who worked for a company for 30 years in Maine and who files a claim for benefits with that company, to be required to litigate his claim in Los Angeles.

Gulf Life Ins., 809 F.2d at 1525, n. 7. The same problem is present here, as Plaintiffs seek to haul the New York-based union defendant into a court that is located some 1,500 miles away. Because Plaintiffs' action against Local 2213 is not an enforcement action under ERISA, Section 1132(e)(2)'s nationwide service provision does not apply. Consequently, this Texas court lacks personal jurisdiction over Local 2213 and the suit should be dismissed as to it.

Moreover, an assertion of personal jurisdiction under Section 1132(e)(2) under these circumstances would also fail the constitutional requirements of due process. "The Fifth Circuit has held that these provisions amount to a congressionally legislated 'nationwide service of process' in ERISA actions, such that the relevant personal jurisdiction inquiry becomes whether the defendant has had minimum contacts with the United States." Verizon Emp. Benefits Comm. v. Jaeger, 2006 WL 2880451 (N.D. Tex. 2006) (Lindsay, J.) (citing Bellaire Gen. Hosp. v. Blue Cross Blue Shield, 97 F.3d 822, 825 (5th Cir.1996)). However, "[t]here are circumstances, although rare, in which a defendant may have sufficient contacts with the United States as a whole but still will be unduly burdened by the assertion of jurisdiction in a faraway and inconvenient forum. As the [U.S. Supreme] Court noted in Burger King, 'minimum requirements inherent in the concept of 'fair play and substantial justice' may defeat the reasonableness of jurisdiction even if the defendant has purposely engaged in forum activities.'" Rep. of Panama v. BCCI Holdings (Luxembourg) S.A., 119 F.3d 935,947 (11th Cir. 1997) (quoting Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz, 471 U.S. 462, 477-78 (1985)). Forcing Local 2213 to litigate in Texas would not comport with constitutional notions of due process given that the Local has not been accused of doing anything unlawful under ERISA. Therefore, application of Section 1132(e)(2) in this case would be constitutionally improper even if the statute did apply.⁷

B. The Complaint Should Be Dismissed For a Lack of Ripeness

Even if the Court had personal jurisdiction over Local 2213, the Court should still dismiss this case pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) because the Complaint does not present a dispute as to Local 2213 that is ripe for judicial determination.

SuperMedia alleges that the dispute is ripe for determination because "[e]xtrinsic or substantial factual development will prove unnecessary or inappropriate because the pertinent facts of this matter the terms of the Plan Documents and the Amendments -should be undisputed, resulting in a proceeding comprised chiefly of legal issues." Am. Compl., ¶ 78. SuperMedia's principal error in this statement is that the Complaint asks the Court to validate plan amendments that will affect current employees represented by Local 2213 who will not retire until after the current CBA has expired. The validity of the plan amendments as to these employees depends on the terms of the new CBA that has not yet been negotiated and, indeed, that SuperMedia assures the Court it will negotiate in good faith. Am. Compl., ¶ 63, fn. 15. The questions that Plaintiffs pose regarding Local 2213, therefore, are not ripe for determination and cannot be answered until the parties reach terms on new collective bargaining agreement.

A court "should dismiss a case for lack of 'ripeness' when the case is abstract or hypothetical." New Orleans Pub. Serv. Inc. v. Council of City of New Orleans, 833 F.2d 583, 586-87 (5th Cir. 1987) (citing Thomas v. Union Carbide Agricultural Products Co., 473 U.S. 568 (1985)). "The key considerations are 'the fitness of the issues for judicial decision and the hardship to the parties of withholding court consideration.'" Id. (quoting Abbott Laboratories v. Gardner, 387 U.S. 136, 149 (1967)). "A case is generally ripe if any remaining questions are purely legal ones; conversely, a case is not ripe if further factual development is required." Id. "Because ripeness affects justiciability, we believe that unripe claims should ordinarily be disposed of on a motion to dismiss, not summary judgment," pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1). Taylor Inv. Ltd. v. Upper Darby Twp., 983 F.2d 1285, 1290 (3d Cir. 1993).

⁷ The concerns regarding personal jurisdiction and the unfairness of hauling parties into a distant forum apply with equal force to other defendants named here who also appear to have no minimum contacts with the state of Texas. According to the Complaint, only four of the named retirees are residents of Texas. Am. Compl., ¶¶ 8-30, 34. The Court may take judicial notice that two other individuals are named Plaintiffs in Murphy v. Verizon Communications, Inc., 09-CV -2262-G. It appears, however, that the other nineteen individuals are residents of 11 different states ranging from California to Florida to Maine for whom no minimum contacts have been alleged.

Plaintiffs are parties to a collective bargaining agreement with Local 2213 and they have promised that "[g]ood faith bargaining with the Defendant Unions will occur prior to the expiration of the CBAs and will encompass ... current employees' retiree benefits." Am. Compl., ¶ 63, fn. 15.⁸ Plaintiffs' request for declaratory judgment -- as it relates to any plan amendment affecting Local 2213 -- will ultimately turn on the content of the new CBA that Plaintiffs have promised, and are legally required to bargain, regardless of the content of the current CBA. That the current CBA will expire before the plan amendments take effect does nothing other than beg the question of what the new contract will say.⁹ Moreover, Plaintiffs allege that because the CBA will expire on Dec. 31, 2013, "the applicable Plans, which explicitly allow the modifications, govern alone." Am. Compl., ¶ 60. This allegation, however, assumes the existence of a future, entirely hypothetical, CBA that contains no language on retiree benefits.¹⁰ In reality, the parties do not know what their successor CBA will have to say about retiree medical benefits because this contract will not be negotiated until over a year from now.

⁸ Even absent a promise to bargain, SuperMedia would be under a legal duty to bargain in good faith imposed by the National Labor Relations Act. See 29 U.S.C. 158(a)(5) and (d); Allied Chem. & Alkali Workers of Am. Local Union No. 1 v. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Chem. Div., 404 U.S. 157, 180 (1971) ("the future retirement benefits of active workers are part and parcel of their overall compensation and hence a well-established statutory subject of bargaining"). Good faith negotiations require that the parties not come to negotiations with a fixed, predetermined position, but rather with an open mind and a willingness to bargain and compromise. NLRB v. Ins. Agents' Int'l Union. AFL-CIO, 361 U.S. 477, 485 (1960).

Plaintiffs might respond that they have no duty to bargain over the retirement benefits for those employees who had already retired as of June 25, 2012. Indeed, "Pittsburgh Plate Glass"¹¹ stands for the proposition that the retirement benefits of a company's current retirees are not mandatory bargaining subjects but that future retirement benefits of active workers are part and parcel of their overall compensation and hence a well-established statutory subject of bargaining." Miss. Power Co. v. NLRB, 284 F.3d 605, 614 (5th Cir. 2002) (quoting Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., 404 U.S. at 180 (emphasis in original)). Plaintiffs' plan changes, however, will ⁹ There is no guarantee that the parties will reach an agreement on the terms of a successor CBA by Jan. 1, 2014. However, even if an agreement is reached after that date, the parties could agree to make it applicable retroactively. Moreover, if there is no new CBA in place as of Jan. 1, 2014, the NLRA requires SuperMedia to maintain the status quo of all mandatory subjects such as the future retirement benefits of current employees while the parties continue negotiations and until those negotiations reach either resolution or impasse. Laborers Health & Welf. Trust Fund For N. Calif. v. Adv. Lightweight Concrete Co., Inc., 484 U.S. 539, 543, n. 5 (1988) (employer under duty to maintain status quo during post-contract negotiations until parties reach resolution or impasse). The point is that neither the Parties nor the Court can adequately determine the respective rights of the parties until the legal situation is known in light of the new CBA.

¹⁰ SuperMedia asserts that "[d]ue to competitive pressures and the impact of increasing healthcare costs on its business and profitability, SuperMedia has amended its health and welfare benefits plans in a manner that modifies and/or eliminates certain benefits that its retirees currently receive." Am. Compl., ¶ 1. If, however, retirees are returned to the Verizon retirement plan under Murphy v. Verizon Communications, and are no longer participants in SuperMedia's plans, SuperMedia's position at the bargaining table regarding the remaining retirees may well change.

¹¹ Allied Chem. & Alkali Workers of Am., Local Union No. 1 v. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Chem. Div., 404 U.S. 157, 180 (1971).

affect not only the benefits of employees who have already retired, but the benefits available to current employees when they retire in the future.

Plaintiffs may argue further that the Union has waived any right to bargain over retiree benefits for current employees. In a Memorandum of Agreement that is included as part of the CBA, the parties stated as follows with regard to both current and future retirees: "The parties further agree that the New CBA will not provide or suggest or imply in any way either that retiree medical benefits for [Current and Future] Retirees will extend beyond the term of the New CBA or that they will not extend beyond the term of the New CBA." Ex. J, pg. 72 (emphasis added). In their Complaint, Plaintiffs bring the first part of this either/or language to the Court's attention, but without explanation they decline to draw the Court's attention to the second part. See Am. Compl., ¶ 59. Viewed in its complete context, it is evident this language does not stand for the proposition claimed by Plaintiffs and instead refutes any claim that Local 2213 has waived its right to bargain over post-contract retirement benefits.

Although Plaintiffs' claim that "extrinsic or substantial factual development will prove unnecessary or inappropriate," Am. Compl. ¶ 78, the critical facts concerning the outcome of the collective bargaining process and the content of the CBA in effect in January 2014 when the plan changes are implemented are entirely unknown at this time. Accordingly, the case is appropriate for dismissal as to Local 2213 because it is unripe.¹²

¹² The Eighth Circuit's recent decision in Maytag Corp. v. Int'l Union, United Auto., Aerospace & Agric. Implement Workers of Am., 687 F.3d 1076 (8th Cir. 2012) is not to the contrary. The Court found that dispute ripe where the change concerned only rights of retirees (not current employees), and where the Union had refused the Employer's request to bargain over this issue. Id. at 1082-83 ("[t]he Union's refusal to bargain the issue made it imperative to seek final and immediate judicial resolution of this significant contract dispute"). Here, in contrast, the Plaintiffs promised to bargain, but have implemented the change in plan language without first engaging in such bargaining. Moreover, as explained infra, good faith bargaining under federal labor law requires that unilateral changes not be made prior to such bargaining, and accordingly, Local 2213 has requested that SuperMedia rescind the plan changes. See Affidavit of Mary Jo Arcuri.

C. Plaintiffs' Attempt to Address Future Rights Also Fails to State a Claim Against Local 2213 Under Section 301

Plaintiffs have named Local 2213 a defendant because of its collective bargaining agreement with SuperMedia. Am. Compl., ¶ 34, fn. 3. Insofar as this declaratory judgment action is one based on Section 301, it must be dismissed because the suit does not allege a "violation" of an existing collective bargaining agreement.

Section 301 creates a cause of action for "[s]uits for a violation" of a collective bargaining agreement. 29 U.S.C. 185(a) (emphasis added). However, SuperMedia does not seek a declaration that its plan amendments are permitted under the existing CBA with Local 2213 nor does SuperMedia allege that there is a dispute as to whether it is violating this CBA. Instead, SuperMedia alleges that "because the CBAs expire before the relevant Amendment sections take effect, the CBAs do not apply to, much less govern, SuperMedia's right to enact the Amendments. Rather the applicable Plans ... govern alone." Am. Compl., ¶ 60.

Section 301 (a) creates jurisdiction for the federal courts to determine whether a CBA has been violated, not whether a CBA does or does not apply to a dispute. See Textron Lycoming Reciprocating Engine Div., Avco Corp. v. United Auto. Workers, 523 U.S. 653, 661-662 (1998) (Union's claim for relief under the Declaratory Judgment Act does not confer § 301(a) jurisdiction in the federal courts where the "complaint alleges no violation of the collective-bargaining agreement.") Because Plaintiffs insist that the current CBA does not apply to the dispute, they fail to state a claim concerning any violation of that CBA. Accordingly, SuperMedia has failed to state a claim for declaratory judgment under Section 301 of the LMRA and the claims against Local 2213 should be dismissed.

D. The Declaratory Judgment Action Against Local 2213 Concerning a Future Contract is an Improper Attempt to Circumvent the National Labor Relations Board's Exclusive Jurisdiction

As to Local 2213, Plaintiffs are asking this Court to validate a decision concerning SuperMedia's bargaining obligation regarding future retirement benefits for current employees. As such, the suit would require a declaratory judgment that Plaintiffs did not commit unfair labor practices in violation of Sections 8(a)(5) and 8(d) of the National Labor Relations Act ("NLRA") by unilaterally amending the Plans. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 158(a)(5) and (d). However, because the National Labor Relations Board has exclusive jurisdiction over such unfair labor practices, this Court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction and the Complaint should be dismissed as to Local 2213 pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1).

An employer's decision to unilaterally change future retirement benefits for current employees violates Section 8(a)(5) of the NLRA as an unlawful unilateral change to a mandatory subject of bargaining. See, e.g., Miss. Power Co. v. NLRB, 284 F.3d 605, 615 (5th Cir. 2002) ("retirement benefits, although prospective, are considered part of an employee's compensation package, and changes in the computation of such benefits do constitute significant changes") (enforcing Miss. Power Co., 332 NLRB 530 (2000)); FirstEnergy Gen. Corp., 358 NLRB No. 96, 9-10 (Aug. 6, 2012) (employer violated NLRA by unilaterally changing future retirement benefits for current employees, even where those changes would not take effect until after employees had retired); Georgia Power Co., 325 NLRB 420 (1998) (prospectively announced changes in retirement benefits that would affect current employees who would not retire until on or after the announced implementation date were mandatory subjects of bargaining that could not be changed unilaterally); Midwest Power Systems, Inc., 323 NLRB 404,

406 (1997) ("The Supreme Court¹³ has clearly stated that the future retirement benefits of current active employees are a mandatory subject of collective bargaining under the Act. Unilateral modification of such benefits constitutes an unfair labor practice"); S. Nuclear Operating Co. v. NLRB, 524 F.3d 1350 (D.C. Cir. 2008) (same).¹⁴

Plaintiffs have alleged facts that demonstrate that they violated the NLRA by amending the Plans in June 2012. Specifically, the Complaint alleges that SuperMedia has already amended the Plans and that SuperMedia intends to deny benefits to retirees starting on Jan. 1, 2014. Although the Complaint describes these changes as ones that "apply to former members of these certain collective bargaining units," Am. Compl., ¶ 62, this description is imprecise and incomplete. In fact, the announced changes to the Plan will affect not only employees who were retired as of the date the changes were made in June 2012, but also those employees still employed on June 25, 2012, who will subsequently hold retiree status on or after Jan. 1, 2014. Am. Compl., ¶ 62. Thus, there are two groups, not one, that will be affected by the plan amendments when they take effect in 2014: (1) employees who were already retired as of June 25, 2012; and (2) current employees who will retire after June 25, 2012. With regard to this second group, SuperMedia's actions represent unilateral changes that are unlawful under the NLRA.

¹³ See Allied Chem. & Alkali Workers of Am., Local Union No. 1 v. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Chem. Div., 404 U.S. 157, 180 (1971) ("Pittsburgh Plate Glass").

¹⁴ In this line of cases, the NLRB and courts of appeals examine the CBA to determine whether the union has waived its right to bargain over the future retirement benefits of current employees. See e.g., Miss. Power Co., 284 F.3d at 619 ("the Unions expressly, clearly and unmistakably waived bargaining on the changes in the Medical Benefits Plan that are here at issue"). However, there is plainly no waiver at issue here, particularly given the parties explicit acknowledgement that the CBA does "not provide or suggest or imply in any way either that retiree medical benefits for Future Retirees will extend beyond the term of the New CBA or that they will not extend beyond the term of the new CBA." Ex. J, pg. 72. A waiver argument is unavailing here because the placeholder language clearly demonstrates that the Union has waived nothing. Moreover, because the announced changes will not take effect until after the current CBA expires, any purported waiver in the CBA would in any event not survive the expiration of that CBA. See e.g., E.I. Dupont De Nemours, 355 NLRB No. 176 (2010), enf. denied on other grounds 682 F.3d 65 (D.C. Cir. 2012).

SuperMedia's violation of the NLRA is similar to that of the employer in the recent NLRB case of FirstEnergy Gen. Corp., 358 NLRB No. 96 (Aug. 6, 2012). In FirstEnergy, the Employer made unilateral changes to retiree benefits that were implemented immediately for employees who had already retired. However, as here, the changes for current employees were not scheduled to take effect until after the CBA then in effect had expired. Id. at 9. The Employer defended by claiming there would be sufficient time for the Union and Employer to bargain over the future retirement benefits of current employees before they took effect, just as SuperMedia has pledged in its amended complaint. Id. at 9; Am. Compl., ¶ 63, fn. 15 ("[g]ood faith bargaining with the Defendant Unions will occur prior to the expiration of the CBAs and will encompass these current employees' retiree benefits"). The Board nonetheless found a violation. "When FirstEnergy suggests that future bargaining may result in current employees never being affected by the cap, it is really saying that, absent agreement in subsequent bargaining to rescind the subsidy cap that applies to this retirement plan, the cap will come into effect in 2013 for unit employees retiring any time after February 15, 2008. That is the essence of a unilateral change, which in most every case could be bargained back to the status quo ante. However, FirstEnergy has a statutory duty to bargain over this retiree benefit before implementing it, not after implementing it, leaving the Union to bargain back to the status quo ante in order to avoid future adverse effects on unit employees." Id. at 9-10 (emphasis added). What SuperMedia seeks to have this Court sanction is unlawful for the same reason.

In response to SuperMedia's unilateral changes, Local 2213 has requested that Plaintiffs rescind the plan changes and bargain in good faith as promised. See Affidavit of Mary Jo Arcuri.¹⁵ If SuperMedia agrees to do so, the case against Local 2213 becomes moot and should be dismissed. If SuperMedia refuses to do so, it will be continuing to engage in the same unlawful conduct at issue in FirstEnergy, and be subject to an unfair labor practice charge. Such charges would be investigated by the NLRB's General Counsel, through its regional office in Buffalo, New York. If the General Counsel finds merit to the charges, then the matter would proceed to trial before an administrative law judge. The standard remedy in such a case is that the wrongdoer restore the status quo ante, which here would mean restoring the Plans to the way they were before June 25, 2012, and to order SuperMedia to prospectively bargain in good faith with Local 2213 before making any further changes. See e.g., FirstEnergy Generation Corp., 358 NLRB No. 96, 20 (2012) (rescinding the unilaterally implemented change in the terms and conditions of employment for its unit employees and ordering bargaining).

This lawsuit represents an attempt to evade the NLRB's exclusive jurisdiction, which is contrary to the U.S. Supreme Court's longstanding Garmon preemption doctrine. See San Diego Bldg. Trades Council, Millmen's Union, Local 2020 v. Garmon, 359 U.S. 236 (1959). For more than 50 years, it has been the rule that "federal courts do not have jurisdiction over activity which 'is arguably subject to § 7 or § 8 of the [NLRA],' and they 'must defer to the exclusive competence of the National Labor Relations Board.'" Kaiser Steel Corp. v. Mullins, 455 U.S. 72, 83 (1982) (quoting Garmon, 359 U.S. at 245). The activity here - SuperMedia's unilateral change to the future retirement benefits of current employees - is arguably subject to Section 8 of the ¹⁵ On a jurisdictional motion brought pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), it is appropriate for the Court to consider matters outside the pleadings. Williamson v. Tucker, 645 F.2d 404, 412-13 (5th Cir. 1981); Menchaca v. Chrysler Credit Corp., 613 F.2d 507, 511 (5th Cir. 1980).

Act, as explained supra. Whether SuperMedia's action was lawful is precisely the question about which SuperMedia seeks declaratory judgment. See Am. Compl., ¶ 71.e ("Plaintiffs seek declarations that ... [a]s to defendants who are current or former bargaining unit members of Defendant Unions, SuperMedia has the right to amend, modify, revoke or terminate the Plans or any provisions therein at any time after December 31, 2013, and at SuperMedia's discretion."). It is the Union's position that SuperMedia does not have that right, and that its decision to proceed with changes to the future retirement benefits of current employees violates Section 8 of the Act. See Allied Chem. & Alkali Workers of m., Local Union No. 1 v. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Chem. Div., 404 U.S. 157, 180 (1971) (unilateral change to the future retirement benefits of current employees violates NLRA); Miss. Power Co. v. NLRB, 284 F.3d 605, 614 (5th Cir. 2002)(same).

This Court cannot enter declaratory judgment against Local 2213 without interpreting the NLRA and deciding whether SuperMedia acted lawfully when it amended the plan to change retirement benefits for current employees. As this matter is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the NLRB, the Court should dismiss the claims against Local 2213 pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1).¹⁶

¹⁶ Plaintiffs may argue that Kaiser Steel Corp. v. Mullins, supra, lends the Court authority to decide whether the NLRA has been violated, a proposition Local 2213 would vigorously dispute. The Kaiser Steel decision created a narrow exception to the rule of deference to the NLRB when the Court is asked to enforce a contract that includes provisions allegedly unlawful under the NLRA. SuperMedia makes no such claim here that would usurp the Board's exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether its pre-bargaining plan amendment violates the Act. Further, in Kaiser Steel the Court limited its holding to a passive remedy in a Section 301 action leaving to the NLRB the exclusive right to "provide affirmative remedies for unfair labor practices." Id. at 86. See American Commercial Barge Lines Company v. Seafarers International Union, 730 F.2d 327 (5th Cir. 1984) (distinguishing Kaiser Steel and declining jurisdiction to enjoin unions' allegedly unlawful collective bargaining demands). For the foregoing reasons, Kaiser Steel is inapplicable. However, even if the Court were to reach the question of the lawfulness of SuperMedia's actions under the NLRA, the clear and longstanding precedents cited above would mandate dismissal of the case for failure to state a claim against Local 2213 under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6).

E. Plaintiffs Fail to State a Claim Against Local 2213 for Declaratory Relief Based on ERISA Because They are not Suing the Union as a Representative of the Individual Retirees

To determine whether an ERISA declaratory judgment action is properly brought, the Court must consider whether ERISA would have granted statutory standing to the declaratory judgment defendant bringing the same claim as an ERISA plaintiff. See NewPage Wisconsin Sys. Inc. v. United Steel, Paper & Forestry, Rubber, Mfg., Energy Allied Indus. & Serv. Workers Int'l Union, AFL-CIO/CLC, 651 F.3d 775, 777-78 (7th Cir. 2011) ("If a well-pleaded complaint by the defendant (the 'natural' plaintiff) would have arisen under federal law, then the court has jurisdiction when the 'natural' defendant brings a declaratory-judgment suit.") Here, Local 2213 is neither a participant, beneficiary, nor a fiduciary. Because SuperMedia has alleged that Local 2213 is not a representative of the retirees,¹⁷ it cannot simultaneously claim that the Local could have brought the alleged claim under ERISA as the "natural" plaintiff. Therefore, dismissal for failure to state a claim is appropriate. See Harold H. Huggins Realty, Inc. v. FNC, Inc., 634 F.3d 787, 795, n. 2 (5th Cir. 2011) (dismissal for lack of statutory standing is properly granted under Rule 12(b)(6)).

IV. CONCLUSION

For all of the above reasons, Local 2213 respectfully requests that the Court dismiss the complaint against it.

¹⁷ See Am. Compl., ¶ 34, fn. 3. Plaintiffs have also made no showing that the retirees have assented, or would assent, to representation in this lawsuit by Local 2213. See Boeing Co. v. March, 656 F. Supp. 2d 837, 846 (N.D. Ill. 2009) ("Boeing has not shown, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the retirees would assent to the Union's representation in this matter. Indeed, Boeing has not presented any evidence of such assent. Accordingly, this court lacks jurisdiction over Boeing's declaratory action under ERISA against the Union.")

Dated: October 12, 2012

Respectfully submitted:

/s/ Yona Rozen

Yona Rozen-Local Counsel
Texas State Bar No. 17358500

GILLESPIE ROZEN & WATSKY, P.C.
3402 Oak Grove Avenue, Suite 200
Dallas, Texas 75204
Phone: (214) 720-2009
Fax: (214) 720-2291
Email: yrozen@grwlawfirm.com

/s/ Donald D. Oliver

Donald D. Oliver-Lead Counsel
NYS State Bar No. 1702588
Admitted pro hac vice
Blitman & King LLP
Franklin Center, Suite 300
443 North Franklin Street
Syracuse, New York 13204
Phone: (315) 422-7111
Fax: (315) 471-2623
Email: ddoliver@bklawyers.com

Counsel for International Brotherhood of
Electrical Workers, Local 2213, AFL-CIO

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on October 12, 2012, I electronically filed the foregoing document with the clerk of court for the U.S. District Court, Northern District of Texas, using the electronic case filing system of the court. The electronic case filing system sent a "Notice of Electronic Filing" to all attorneys of record who have consented in writing to accept this Notice as service of this document by electronic means.

/s/ Donald D. Oliver

Donald D. Oliver